DEALS IN PRIMARY FOOD INGREDIENTS (DAIRY INDUSTRIAL SEGMENT)

The Indian dairy industry is a large and growing market, with significant opportunities for both established and new businesses, fueled by increasing demand and government support. It encompasses dairy farming, milk processing, and the production of various dairy products.

Product

- CURD CULTURE, also known as a starter culture, is a freeze-dried product containing specific bacteria (like lactobacillus) that are used to ferment milk and create curd (or dahi) with a thicker, richer texture and potentially probiotic benefits.
- FLAVOURS, in milk products arise from a complex interplay of milk constituents (lactose, citrate, lipids, proteins) and processing factors like heat treatment, pH, and ripening temperature, resulting in volatile compounds that contribute to the overall taste and aroma.
- FOOD COLOURS, can be used in milk products, both naturally and synthetically, with regulations in place to ensure safety and purity. The Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) permits the use of certain colors, and products are labeled accordingly.
- PRESERVATIVES, used in dairy products to extend shelf life and prevent spoilage include potassium sorbate, sodium benzoate, citric acid, Mithai Magic, Dezerto.
- Paneer Coagulant, production involves the coagulation of milk proteins, primarily casein, to form a solid curd. Coagulants, which are acids, lower the pH of the milk, causing the casein to separate and form clumps. GDL powder, or glucono-delta-lactone, is a white, odorless, crystalline powder used as a food additive, acting as a mild acidifier, leavening agent, and coagulant, often used in tofu, cheese, and baked goods.
